TOTAL	100%

SPECIFICS OF COURSE ASSIGNMENTS

The instructor will provide grading rubrics that will provide more detail as to how this assignment will be graded.

Course Activities

Class participation through discussion activities is an integral part of this course. To provide a structure for balanced participation and allow students to maximize the benefit of the discussion activities, it is required to follow these guidelines: 1) Post responses to discussion questions in the first three days of the school week (Monday through Wednesday in online classes; various days in mixed-mode classes). 2) Post at least four or more thoughtful and topic-relevant comments to responses made by classmates over at least three different days of the school week. 3) Respond to any questions that the instructor has regarding students' original post by the end of the school week.

Components	% of Grade
Timeliness of responses	15%
Quality of responses	70%
Quantity of responses	15%
TOTAL	100%

Quizzes (equally weighted).

Students will take weekly equally weighted online quizzes to reinforce the course materials. The quizzes will test students' ability to utilize course concepts and terminology. All quizzes are closed books and notes.

Components	% of Grade
TOTAL	100%

Application Papers (two equally weighted)

Students will write two, equally weighted, five- to six-page, double-spaced application papers. In these papers, students will use social theories to analyze two current events (no older than 12 months). Student are expected to combine their own thoughtful analysis with ideas and information found in a minimum of two sources. Therefore, as in any scholarly writing, students should not merely copy information from another author, but use evidence to support the contentions they have drawn from their findings and critically analyze related literature - this paper has to be an analytical paper, not a summary of readings. The application papers must meet APA requirements of format and style. Students must cite the sources of all ideas, facts, and information used that are not their own, even if they have put the information into their own words. Failure to do so is plagiarism, even if the oversight is unintentional.

Research Paper

As a way of summarizing their learning in this course, students will write an eight- to ten-page, double-spaced paper that will explore in depth a subject of their interest from the course material. Students should complete some preliminary reading for their paper early in the quarter. During the fourth week of the course, they will submit to their instructor a one- to two-page proposal of their research paper. The proposal should suggest their topic, propose an arguable thesis, and give the instructor some idea of how students intend to research and develop their thesis. This proposal is not graded, but students should approach it seriously as it can greatly enhance their chances for writing a successful paper. Students are expected to combine their own thoughtful analysis with ideas and information found in a minimum of three sources. Therefore, as in any scholarly writing, students should not merely copy information from another author, but use evidence to support the contentions they have drawn from their findings and critically analyze related literature - this paper has to be an analytical paper, not a summary of readings. The research paper must meet APA requirements of format and style. Students must cite the sources of all ideas, facts, and information used that are not their own, even if they have put the information into their own words. Failure to do so is plagiarism, even if the oversight is unintentional.
